

Alaska Native Health System

2006 Community Health Aide/Practitioner Manual Project

Alaska Native Health Campus

Gambell Village Clinic

- The 2006 Alaska Community Health Aide/Practitioner Manual*
- The Community Health Aide Program (CHAP) is a primary care model for health care delivery with established village to tertiary care medical center referral patterns.
  - In response to the 1950s Tuberculosis epidemic, this unique program was implemented to meet the needs of Alaska's Native population located in remote, sparsely populated areas of the state.
  - Program materials including this, the fourth edition CHAM, are specifically designed to guide every patient care encounter through the History, Exam, Assessment and Plan (HEAP) format.
  - For more information about the Community Health Aide Program or to order the 2006 Alaska Community Health Aide/Practitioner Manual go to: www.akchap.org

